WASHINGTON.

CONGRESSIONAL.

Washington, May 11. Mr. Wigginton from the committee on public lands reported first the bill for the sale of timber, land in California, Oregon, Nevada, and Washington Territory. It provides that such lands may be sold to citizens of the United States in parcels of not less than one hundred and twenty acres, and may be sold in parcels of not less than one hundred and twenty acres, and may be sold in parcels of not less than one hundred and twenty acres.

Mr. Wright of Mississippi, from the same committee reported a bill for the relief of settlers on public lands.

Mr. Wigginton, from the same committee, reported the bill providing that every person who shall plant, protect and maintain for eight years ten acres of timber land, shall at the expiration of that time be entitled to a patent for the whole of such quarter section.

Mr. Hewitt, from the same committee, reported the bill permitting Nebraska to cede certain territory in that state to the state of Missouri.

Mr. Patterson, from the same committee, reported the bill placing California, Nevada, and Colorado on an equality with other states in the matter of public lands. Referred to committee on the whole.

The following bills were passed: To restore to market certain lands in Utah for the relief of settlers on public lands; providing that any person who shall plant and maintain for ten years ten acres of timber land shall be entitled to a patent for such quarter section; permitting Nebraska to cede certain territory to Missouri.

Providing for the sale of timber lands in California, Oregon, Washington Territory, Nevada, and in Colorado in quantities not exceeding 160 acres to any one citizen at the minimum price of $2.50 per acre, and making it unlawful to cut any timber on public lands.

Mr. Rogers called up the bill to regulate the interstate transportation by railroad, and to prohibit unjust discriminations by common carriers.

A long debate followed, in which the principal objection expressed against the bill was that its meaning was buried away in such a mass of verbiage as to make it almost unintelligible.

The House proceeded to vote on the amendments.

Mr. Cannon offered an amendment to prohibit the pooling arrangements of railroad companies. Agreed to without disposition of the bill, on which, however, the previous question was seconded, so as to keep it before the House.

House adjourned.

Washington Notes.

The democratic congressmen having in charge the proposed investigation of alleged electoral frauds, are arranging their plans for the presentation of the subject to the House on Monday next. A movement would have been made in the House to-day, but for the absence of representatives whose presence was deemed necessary.

Continuous quillies were used, care being taken to prevent their being soiled in the course of preparation. In his explanation of the theory, Laebig remarks that the distastefulness for alcohol of Conium after partaking of such food, is due to the carbonaceous starch contained therein, which renders immediately and distasteful the carbon of the liquors.

MAY 12, 1878.

Official Paper of the City of Colorado Springs.

The gross earnings of the Denver & Rio Grande railway, for the first week ending May 7th, were $19,248.39.

Col. Bacon has improved the appearance of his already fine stable by the addition of a neat awning.

The O. K. Restaurant, which has been so thoroughly renovated, will be opened for guests on Monday.

The Pueblo Champion was also troubled about receiving their dispatches last night. It seems that some ignoramus on the divide, trying to learn telegraphy, caused all the trouble.

About one hundred and twenty men, recent employees of the D. & R. G. road, who were "paid off" at Pueblo yesterday, were passengers on the north bound express last evening, bound for Denver. They had evidently left a part of their money in exchange for some Pueblo blue ruin, as they were making things pretty lively.

Messrs. Marsh & Brent returned last night from their New Mexico trip after an absence of 23 days. It will be remembered that we stated some weeks ago that they intended to go south to buy some burros for Pike's Park. They went about 275 miles south, and were very successful in accomplishing their object. They brought 4 burros, capable of carrying 200 pounds to the top of any peak in Colorado, via any route. They will be prepared about June 1, to take parties of any number to the top of Pike's Park, furnishing a camping outfit, food, etc. The expense will be reduced about one-half. There will be such general interest in a project of this kind that we will give fuller particulars hereafter.

A Letter from W. H. McIntire.

COLORADO SPRINGS, May 11, 1878.

To the Editor of the Gazette.

DEAR SIR: The statement made by Mrs. Knox in your issue of to-day, in regard to the papers of Mr. Knox, in so far as it relates to the fact that she had a substance of a letter, the contents of which were: Mrs. Knox, signed by myself, at the death of Mr. Knox, made a thorough examination of the safe, where such papers are usually kept, and found but one envelope, marked "Jas. Knox, personal," which was open, and contained a certificate of bank stock in Mr. Knox's name, which envelope and contents Mrs. Knox took out of the bank with her. Why she has singled me out in this business I do not understand, for other papers both before and after the search we made together, looked over every thing in the vault for the same purpose. How is it that she says I brought her the envelope, when in fact she took it from the bank herself? How is it she knows there were two envelopes, when in fact there was but one? How is it she says the envelope was empty, when in fact she found in it a certificate of stock? And how is it she knows that it contained other papers than what were found, and perhaps she can inform the public what they were? How is it she knows that Mr. Knox had any private papers in the bank, when in fact every thing of that nature she must know he kept at his house? I simply state these few facts to deny that part of her letter which refers to myself, thinking it to be my duty to do so.

Hastily, W. H. MCINTIRE.

From Leadville.

THE GULCH ABOVE LEADVILLE. LOCATION OF THE TOWN CLIMATE, ETC.

LEADVILLE, COLO., May 8, 1878.

To the Editor of the Gazette.

California Gulch has room enough for a metropolitan city. As I have stated, it has nothing of the gulch character in its physical outlines until you pass Leadville, above which point it narrows up, crowded by the mountain spurs, and assumes all the peculiar features of a respectable gulch. The bottom of this ravine, from below Leadville to Oro, nearly three miles above, was literally torn to pieces by the placer miners of ten years ago. Its whole course was so thickly strewn, down to bedrock, with the yellow dust that one might fancy the mountain gods had emptied their treasure-bag at its head, leaving the floods to bury the precious gold along the course of the dirty stream whose waters were one day to assist in its resurrection. Nothing is now left to tell the story save the continuous walls and cribs of mammoth cobble stones, the scattered remnants of dams and sluices, the tenantless ruins of the inevitable log cabin, and an occasional miner who still battles with some neglected corner that chanced to escape the general onslaught. Just where the gulch begins to widen, at Leadville, there is still enough of the gold-bearing soil left to warrant the use of expensive hydraulic works, which will soon be in active operation.

The location of Leadville is really beautiful. A foot hill on the east suddenly broadens to a width of miles, and projects its comparatively gentle bottom slope westward along the gulch-to-the-mouth. The outline north and south is gently rounded, terminating on the south at the creek. The drainage, which is most thorough, is mainly to the west and south. The situation is not only high and open, but looks out on lovely mountain scenery. The great Sagadahoc range just across the valley of the Arkansas, hits up its glacier scarred peaks in full view for many a mile to the northward and southward. Mission mountain directly west, Elbert south-west and Homestake north-west.

The great eastward trend of the range toward Berkskin and Lincoln and Bloss is plainly visible, and the eye wanders down with interest along the minor peaks and spurs of the Park range on the east. The location of this famous town is therefore far from being repulsive. On the contrary, it is open, healthful, convenient and attractive. Its altitude of ten thousand feet, while of course affecting its climate unfavorably, rendering the nights much colder than in the same latitude east of the Front range, has, on the other hand, an ameliorating element in the sunny exposure of the locality. The morning sun soon dissipates the previous night's frosts, and before noon changes an arctic to a tropical climate. The chief climatic objections to Leadville are its cold nights and frequent storms, objections which generally pertain to such high altitudes, but seldom softened by favoring influences in so marked a degree as here. The rarity of the atmosphere undoubtedly tells upon new comers, but not usually in a manner unfavorable to health. A somewhat quicker respiration and a broader expansion of the chest, followed by a restored normal condition, is the usual result as acclimation progresses. Certain peculiar temperaments would doubtless be unfavorably affected, as is the case at Colorado Springs, four thousand feet lower, but as a rule no apprehension need be felt on this score by those desiring to come here.

J. L. LOOMIS.

We are informed that a new weekly paper, to be called The Morning Call, is to be issued from the Franklin printing office in this city the first number to appear to-morrow.

The train will leave the depot on Tuesday morning at 7 o'clock, sharp.

THE BOYS' EXPERIENCE.

"I'd rather have a fool make me merry than experience make me sad." As you like it.

The following "true story" is told in foolish rhyme in order that no merry reader may experience sadness by purchasing clothing elsewhere than at F. E. Dow's. There were three boys sat under a tree, And they were happy as boys could be. "Now Saturday noon they were glad to say, 'Hark! good fellows, no school to-day!'"

Boy number one spoke out, said he: "How nicely this prime new suit fits me!" The second boy said: "I've a right good thing. Just look at this elegant suit for spring!"

The other chimed in: "Oho! but see! What a splendid new rig my mother bought me!"

Then the chorus went up in regular rows, "Our Spring Suits all came from F. E. Dow's!"
